Dehonian Spirituality

“Do you see this globe which is like the garden of humankind? It has been adorned by a great artist and his students. The artist is God; his students are the people—the artists of Earth. Contact with beauty beautifies the soul; and imposing sights elevate it.”

Leo John Dehon, SCJ, “On the Study of Geography” July 31, 1886

ECS Students Visit Mundelein Seminary

ECS students participated in a religion and culture outing at the National Shrine of St. Maximilian Kolbe on April 19. Fr. Anthony Lajato, OFM Conv. gave ECS students an overview of the history of the Shrine and neighboring Mundelein Seminary (University of St. Mary of the Lake) and a tour of the St. Maximilian Kolbe exhibit. ECS students were greeted by the Rector of the National Shrine of St. Maximilian Kolbe, Fr. Lawrence Zurek. Fr. Anthony also arranged a tour of Mundelein Seminary with a fellow friar and gave ECS students a tour of the stunning architectural features of the Chapel, and the library, and a visit to the beautiful lake, before proceeding to Mass back at the Shrine. ECS students were treated to a pizza lunch in Libertyville, followed by a historic tour of the Anselm B. Cook house conducted by the Libertyville Historical Society. During the trip, there were two American Culture & History Trivia Competitions (with prizes) conducted by ECS instructors, who accompanied students on the trip.

LUNCH SPEAKER SERIES:

Fr. Colman Okechukwu Nwokoro
Presents:

"The Inclusive peace process at the backdrop of Theological Anthropology and Catholic Social Teaching: A key to preventing and ending Violent Conflict."

ECS Intercultural Lunchtime Talk

On April 15, Fr. Francis Coleman of Nigeria, spoke about his doctoral research at Marquette University. His talk was entitled “Inclusive Peace Process as the Backdrop of Theological, Anthropological, and Catholic Social Teaching: A Key to Preventing and Ending Violent Conflict”. Fr. Coleman will be doing field research in a volatile area of Nigeria this summer as he gathers hands-on experience related to this important topic. Fr. Coleman currently presides at weekday masses at the Cathedral of St. John the Evangelist in addition to his Ph.D. studies. To watch the talk, click here.

Deacons and Wives Retreat

Last week, Dcn. Steve Kramer led a retreat for deacons and their wives in the Diocese of Davenport. While there, Dcn. Steve met up with three Sacred Heart alumni, Fr. Bill Roush, Fr. Dan Dorau, and Fr. Terry Ball, all of whom are from the Diocese of Davenport. Thank you Dcn. Steve for leading this wonderful retreat!
